

The Law Enforcement Survival Institute

Saving the lives of the people who save lives!

Executive Coaching and Executive Mastermind Groups

The Law Enforcement Survival Institute (LESI) is an assessment, consulting and training organization. We work with law-enforcement professionals and other first responders and their organizations who want to be at their best. Our focus is wellness and resilience. The Law Enforcement Survival Institute is supported by subject matter experts on a variety of topics around the areas of wellness, resilience, human performance and improving organizational culture. About law enforcement we believe:

“If we don't take care of our people, they won't be able to take care of THE PEOPLE!”

Fostering the best in Leadership for law enforcement wellness is a mission critical

We have been working for over 12 years to build resilient first responders and have accumulated massive amounts of knowledge and information about what works and what doesn't.

The Services That We Offer Can Include:

- In-Person, Virtual, Pre-Recorded or Blended Training
- Individual, Organizational and Community Assessments
- Consulting to Determine or Support Existing Wellness or Resilience Initiatives
- Executive Coaching to Support Wellness Leadership
- Consulting and Training that Promote Trust and Positive Community Interactions

We also believe that wellness and resilience are symbiotic systems made up of several critical parts that must work in tandem in order for the whole to be effective.

Executive Coaching and Executive Mastermind Groups

The Law Enforcement Survival Institute has assembled a world class group of executive, performance and personal development coaches to help Chiefs, Sheriffs and other executive team members with specialized individual coaching or collective, mastermind group coaching on specific issues.

These are not law enforcement coaches, they are business and executive coaches with experience working for and with Tony Robbins and Robbins Research International, Marcus Buckingham, John Maxwell, and Fortune 100 companies like General Electric, Johnson & Johnson, Chevron and Facebook.

In place of more expensive in-person training or coaching we can provide live Zoom sessions or pre-recorded sessions, or a combination, that allows the participants to conduct self-paced work within the initiative's overall timeline, and then access group sessions from wherever they are, using the Zoom platform. This also means that everyone has instant online access to the exact same information and materials whenever they have time, which makes scheduling conflicts due to shiftwork a thing of the past.
